Tov L'Hodot

Alarm clock in the morning
Gets me out of bed
As I wake to face another hectic day
No time for hesitation
There's too much work ahead
But in the midst of all the chaos and the strife
I must learn to count the blessings in my life

Tov L'hodot
I won't take these things for granted
Tov L'hodot
Now I see the world anew
Tov L'hodot
Friends and family bring laughter to my soul
And my life would have no meaning without you

Sunset on the mountains
A simple melody
The freedom that I have to choose my way
A newfound revelation
A different way to see
Now your kindness warms me in the morning light
And I am shielded from the darkness of the night

Tov L'hodot
I won't take these things for granted
Tov L'hodot
Now I see the world anew
Tov L'hodot
Friends and family bring laughter to my soul
And my life would have no meaning without you

The world around me opens up and lets me in
Like a mystery I finally understand
I raise up my voice and I sing out to the sky
When I realize how fortunate I am

Tov L'hodot
I won't take these things for granted
Tov L'hodot
Now I see the world anew
Tov L'hodot
Friends and family bring laughter to my soul
And my life would have no meaning without you

Copyright 2008 Todd Herzog (VoxArt Music, ASCAP)