YOUR NAME

If I shield my eyes then I can move toward you
Realize that I have come from you
Hear the lies and know that they're not true
I will rise

But until the day I'm standing before you
Learn to wait is all that I can do
Recreate the life that I once knew
In my mind

The horizon line is where my eyes fall
Looking for a sign of who I am
Till the end of time I'll learn to feed this flame
By remembering your name

The sound of evergreens falling
Shake the ground I hear your voice calling
Look around your image resounds in everything

When the rain has come the water reminds me
Be the one where heaven and earth meet
See the sun the circle is complete
Now I sing

The horizon line is where my eyes fall
Looking for a sign of who I am
Till the end of time I'll learn to feed this flame
By remembering your name

All that I know is I'm awake
All that I have is yours to take
All that I ask for is your hand
Your hand

The horizon line is where my eyes fall
Looking for a sign of who I am
Till the end of time I'll learn to feed this flame
By remembering your name

Copyright 2007 Todd Herzog (VoxArt Music, ASCAP)